

University of California Press (UC Press) is seeking individual or co-editor applications for the editorship of Global Perspectives. Applicant(s) appointed to this position will succeed founding Editor-in-Chief, Helmut Anheier, who has served in the position since 2019.

Launched in 2020, Global Perspectives is an online-only, peer reviewed, transdisciplinary journal that is devoted to the study of global patterns and developments across a wide range of topics and fields, among them trade and markets, security and sustainability, communication and media, justice and law, governance and regulation, culture and value systems, identities, environmental interfaces, technology-society interfaces, shifting geographies and migration. The journal seeks to advance social science research and debates in a globalizing world, specifically in terms of concepts, theories, methodologies, and evidence bases.

Global Perspectives was named Best New Journal in 2021 by the Council of Editors of Learned Journals. It is currently indexed in SCOPUS and is under review by Web of Science.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in any of the social sciences, a distinguished scholarly record and strong interdisciplinary and international outlook. Previous journal editorial experience is greatly preferred, but not required. Applicants should possess strong organizational and management skills, the ability to work with others, and a commitment to publishing high quality, relevant, and engaging scholarship. Applicants should ideally be available to assume editorship by July 1, 2024.

Primary responsibilities of the Editor/Co-Editor include:

- Building a robust pipeline of quality submissions
- Managing or overseeing all aspects of the peer review process
- Making final decisions on manuscripts
- Reviewing copy editing and page proofs as necessary
- Ensuring editorial workflows and processes run smoothly
- Appointing, and collaborating with, members of the Editorial Team and Editorial Board
- Meeting with UC Press staff regularly to discuss various aspects of journal publishing, journal promotion, and other journal projects

UC Press offers a modest stipend for editorial support for this position.

Applicants should send a letter of application including their vision and goals for the journal, a description of their qualifications for the position, a current CV, and indications of any potential institutional support to:
