

The Public Historian
Film and Media Review Guidelines

All questions regarding review proposals, submissions, editing, and publication should be directed to the Assistant Reviews Editor at hist-publichistory@ucsb.edu

BACKGROUND:

The film and media review section of The Public Historian was established to evaluate current historical feature films, documentaries, radio programs, and television productions. The journal will review materials that receive wide public attention (i.e., nationally available films) along with works with a smaller audience and distribution. This section contains a mix of single-item reviews and multi-item review essays. We encourage our reviewers and other interested historians to suggest items for review; suggested films will be assigned to reviewers by TPH staff.

REVIEWING FILMS AND OTHER MEDIA:

In reviewing media materials, it is especially important that reviewers understand and explain the intended purposes and audience of the work and the context in which it was produced (e.g., large or limited budget, time constraints). As in reviews of history in other forms, film and media reviewers should briefly report on the subject matter and main themes presented in addition to evaluating the work itself. Evaluation should take into consideration accuracy of content and setting and the effectiveness of presentation (e.g., visual quality, conveyance of text, use of sound, and the meshing of these components).

Reviewers should also pay attention to other aspects of the work, such as experimentation, the part played by historians in the production, and the constraints of the medium. For example, audio and video materials have less opportunity for exposition and documentation than books. Does the project stand alone without these? Is further information needed/handled through a website or companion volume?

Reviewers should also ask these questions:

- Has the project explored the opportunities of the film or visual medium?
- Does the public history presentation in this program move scholarship to a new plane?
- Is the historian involved enhancing public debate on the subject area covered?
- What might other professionals learn from this effort?

Please avoid passive-voice constructions, overly complex sentences, jargon, and redundancies. We may return for revision any review in need of severe editing, and we reserve the right to reject any review submitted for publication.

All reviews are edited to conform to TPH house style and standard literary usage to achieve greater economy of space and clarity of meaning. Please consult The Chicago Manual of Style for guidance.

FORMAT OF REVIEWS:

1. Please submit your review as a Microsoft Word document, and please use 12-point font and double-space the review.
2. Unless otherwise agreed upon, reviews should be about 1000 words long. We will shorten, or return for revision, any review of excessive length. Length guidelines vary in the case of review essays, but are generally 2000 words.
3. Please provide the following information in your introductory heading: title of film or media production; writer and director; producers; production date; run time; and any further information that would help to identify or credit responsible parties. Please limit headings to three full lines of text.

Sample Heading:

White Wash. Ted Woods, Writer, Director, and Producer; David Woods, Executive Producer; Airrion Copeland and Dan Munger, Producers. Trespass Productions LLC., 2011. [please fill in run time]

4. Images are strongly encouraged, and will be included whenever possible. Please supply images as electronic jpg or tiff files sized at 4" wide, with a minimum 300 dpi. Please do not place them directly in the text; instead, label your images by your last name (Smith image 1, etc.) and indicate image placement within the text. Use brackets: [Insert Smith image here]. Please provide image captions in a separate Word document.

Place files too large to e-mail in a Dropbox folder and invite the assistant reviews editor to share. All images must be accompanied by captions, credits, and a statement (letter or e-mail message) of permission from the holder of the copyright.

5. Please keep quotations short. If you quote from a source other than the program, please provide a full footnote citation adhering to The Chicago Manual of Style. If you mention another work but do not quote from it, please indicate, in parentheses, the full name of the author, the full title, and the year of publication.
6. The Public Historian uses the footnote style, spelling, and punctuation format of The Chicago Manual of Style and The American Heritage Dictionary.
7. Your name and institutional affiliation should appear on a separate line at the end of your review.

8. Email your completed review to hist-publichistory@ucsb.edu.
9. Once your manuscript has been submitted, you will receive an acknowledgement, then later a copy-edited version of the review. Please promptly approve or request changes in the typescript. Approximately one month before publication you will receive proofs e-mailed directly from UC Press. Please review and make any further changes within three days of receiving proofs, then return to the managing editor, shcase@ucsb.edu.

NOTE: Please keep TPH up-to-date with your e-mail and affiliation.

Thank you for your contribution to The Public Historian.

SAMPLE REVIEWS:

Rachel Sommerstein, Review of The Roosevelts: An Intimate History, May 2015

[link <http://tph.ucpress.edu/content/37/2/159>]

Liz Ševčenko, Review of The Act of Killing, August 2014

[link <http://tph.ucpress.edu/content/36/3/174>]

SAMPLE REVIEW ESSAY:

Hendrik Henrichs, “A Children’s Book and a Soap Opera as Public History? Two Dutch Films on Slavery,” May 2014

[link <http://tph.ucpress.edu/content/36/2/117>]